WORKING THE NETS FOR KINGDOM ADVANCEMENT

Done With Cookie Cutter Christianity

A Message from the Rev. Jim Barnes, National Minister

Many churches these days are trying desperately to figure out what their future is supposed to look like. Although often planted 100, 200 and sometimes close to 300 years ago with unique identities as Evangelical, Reformed, Congregational or Christian churches, many of these congregations are seeking to “reinvent” themselves to look like the churches that are perceived to be trendy or “cutting edge.”

The old “St. Snoopy Church of the Resurrection” is then renamed “The Happening,” the pastor sheds the robe or formal attire in favor of blue jeans and an untucked shirt, the organ is sold for scrap and the hymnals are replaced by cutting edge projection technology. Thus the “old” church is reconfigured to look like a new, hip church. Sometimes the transformation works and the numbers start going up - other times, the congregation continues to struggle even with the new look.

Although I know the main reason pastors and church leaders do these things is to try and reach more people (having done several of them myself during my 24 years in local church ministry), I had an experience a few months ago that has given me a different perspective on the value of history, tradition and variety in the life of the church.

Last Fall I had the opportunity to tour Israel for the first time. While most Christians who visit the Holy Land will tell you that the Lord speaks to them in special ways while they are there, one of the ways the Spirit influenced me during that seven day trip was by causing me to notice the incredible diversity and richness of the Body of Christ as seen in the faces of the thousands of Christian tourists who all come together to visit that one small country.

As we traveled through Israel I saw busloads of Christian tourists from Nigeria, singing worship songs at the Church of the Beatitudes - I saw elderly women and Eastern Orthodox priests praying in their black robes and dark clothing as they walked the Via Dolorosa in the Old City of Jerusalem - I saw Roman Catholics celebrating communion in the tiny grotto where the birth of Christ is said to have taken place - I saw American Evangelical believers having Bible studies near the reputed site of the Garden of Gethsemane. Everywhere we went in Israel it was a visual smorgasbord of Christians from all over the world, wearing the clothing of their cultures and carrying out the worship styles and rituals of their traditions - all of us together in Israel for much the same reason: to see and experience the places where the Lord Jesus was born, lived, ministered, died, rose and ascended into heaven.

Driving through the desert along the border between Israel and Jordan, I also found myself thinking about Christians I couldn't see who were just a few hundred miles away in places like Iraq, Iran, Libya and Syria - Christians living in areas controlled by radical Islamic military groups who were being evicted from their homes, tortured, raped, sold into slavery, crucified and even beheaded because they refused to deny Christ. In what kinds of churches did these believers worship just before becoming martyrs? Perhaps some were Coptic Christians, or Assyrian Christians or African or Arab Christians, people who have religious clothing, music and practices very unlike those found in most "successful" modern American churches.

As I reflected on this incredible, global diversity among Christians, I began thinking to myself: I'm done with cookie cutter Christianity. Clearly God did not use a single mold when forming His Church throughout history which would have resulted in all of us looking the same. He didn't create us all to worship Him with the same music, wearing the same clothing, in the same kinds of buildings and gathering places. Instead, the Lord has built for Himself a Church that looks as different as the world in which He placed it - and I'm glad He did it that way - because it makes being a Christian a whole lot more inspiring.

In the book of Revelation 7:9a John says, "After this I looked and there before me was a multitude that no one could count, from every nation, tribe, people and language, standing before the throne and in front of the Lamb." You'll notice there that in his vision of heaven, John could tell that the people standing before the throne were not all the same. Somehow, he could discern, even in heaven, that these saints came from "every nation, tribe, people and language."

God seems to love diversity. Just take one look at the Creation and the diversity we see in nature. If God created the world with diversity, why would He form His Church to be any less diverse?

So the next time you feel as if the only way for your church to be faithful or to "succeed" is to look exactly like someone else's church, just remember - God has been building His Church among every nation, tribe, people and language since the beginning. Since He promises that this diversity will continue on into heaven, there's no reason to think that He suddenly wants a cookie cutter church in this generation. I would encourage you then to celebrate who you are, what the Lord has made your church to be - and allow His Spirit to animate everything you do - for it is the Lord who will bring the harvest!

The 18th Annual Convocation

September 16-18, 2016

St. John's Evangelical Protestant Church
September 16-18, 2016
512 2nd Avenue, SE
Cullman, AL 35055

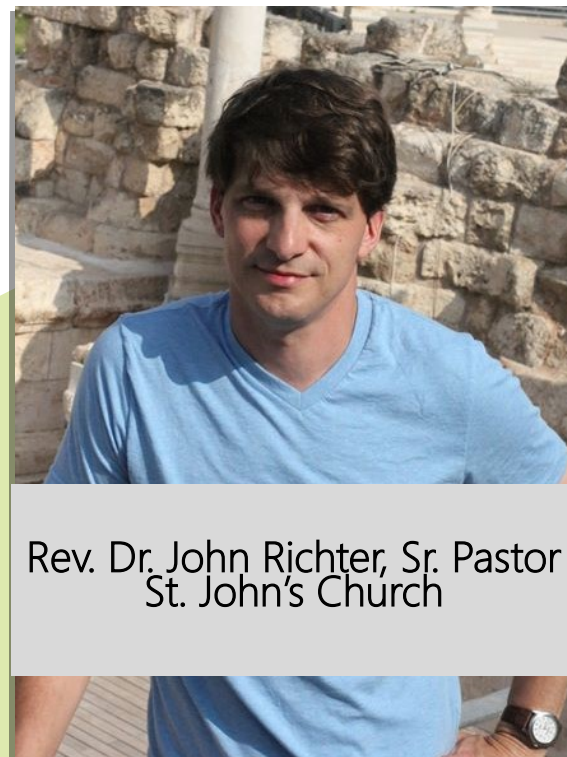

ea2016@sjepc.com 256-734-0344 website – sjepc.com

Dear Friends and Family of the EA,

While a seminary student at Pepperdine University, I was intrigued by our study of Genesis and I was moved by the call of Abram to leave his people and go to a place God would show him. Fast-forward almost twenty years and the redemptive work God began in Abram still resonates with me. God longs to bless the nations and make his name known through his people. In such a time as this we may lament the loss of privilege and prestige of our faith in our own land but we do better to walk confidently and boldly in the promises of God. Our Lord Jesus has set us apart as salt and light in this world. It is on this promising note we welcome you to Cullman for fellowship and encouragement. We pray you will be challenged and equipped for the work ahead of us. We trust you will be refreshed and blessed in your own journey. Let us join as an association for worship to glorify our God. Let the churches of the EA rise to the task before us. And, as God has blessed us, may we be a blessing in this perilous age.

In the name of the risen Christ,
Reverend John

WELCOME FROM OUR HOST PASTOR

Rev. Dr. John Richter, Sr. Pastor
St. John's Church

A WORD FROM OUR EA PRESIDENT A MESSAGE FROM OUR BOARD TO YOURS YOUR PASTOR AND THE EA CONVOCATION

Pastor Jeff Siems, President
Board of Directors
Evangelical Association

Through the years we have noticed a trend at convocation. Pastors will often arrive early on Saturday morning, stay through dinner, and then leave for home so they can be in worship on Sunday morning. That means that they miss the refreshment of the Pastor's Seminar on Friday morning not to mention the worship and keynote speakers on both Friday and Saturday nights--either because of financial pressures or pulpit requirements.

Our board would like to offer a recommendation to your church board: allow your pastor to attend the entire convocation—Friday morning through Sunday morning. Further, consider paying all the expenses for your pastor and spouse to attend. We are confident that you will be pleasantly surprised as your pastor returns to the pulpit the following Sunday with new fire and energy acquired by attending the full convocation the weekend before—not to mention the new ideas that will be generated by the workshop sessions.

Please make convocation attendance a priority for your pastor and congregation in 2016 and beyond. Remember—there is no debating and voting over resolutions, pronouncements, or budgets—just worship, fellowship, inspiration, and networking!

Todd Gerelds – Author, Woodlawn — session speaker

Todd Gerelds, son of Legendary Alabama high school football coach Tandy Gerelds, witnessed God's transforming grace at Woodlawn High School and throughout his dad's life. Todd tells the amazing story of redemption that happened at Woodlawn and changed countless lives. A story of grace in the midst of racial tensions, Todd recounts the story in his book Woodlawn. Future Miami Dolphin Tony Nathan was an African American and Coach Gerelds knew that playing him ahead of other players would be highly controversial, but the decision to play Nathan was made because it was bigger than football. It was about doing what was right for Woodlawn and Birmingham. The inspirational story has also been made into a movie by the same title.

Please note Todd is not a keynote speaker but a workshop leader. We've highlighted him in our bios because of his unique contribution to this year's Convocation.*

WORKSHOP SESSIONS

1. The Inspiring Story of Woodlawn – Todd Gerelds, Author

You have seen, read and heard about the inspirational story of Woodlawn High School in Birmingham, AL. In this session Todd will reflect on those lessons of grace and redemption he witnessed on and off the gridiron. To learn more about Todd see his bio listed with presenters.

2. Being Mission Minded: Living Out Acts 1:8 – Shaping a Congregation's Commitment to a Global Vision of Missions – Eric Christman, Sr. Pastor, St. John's Christian Church, Archbold, Ohio

This will be a thoughtful and practical workshop on creating a vision statement on missions, educating the local congregation, committing to regular prayer, raising and allocating funds for missions, and growing and supporting missionaries.

3. What I've Learned in Forty-five Years of Ministry That I Wish I knew When I Started Rev. Daryl C. Higgins, Sr. Pastor, First Protestant Church, New Braunfels, TX

A must attend workshop for both pastors and lay leaders in the local church no matter what size the congregation. Included will be such topics as how to deal with difficult members, selecting the right people to serve on critical program committees, dealing with difficult staff, pastoral care issues in our secular society, motivating people to tithe, how to raise that big lead off gift for a church building program, casting a vision in a church that doesn't want one, and much more. Daryl, Senior Pastor of First Protestant Church for the past 27 years, shares his insights in his typical "No Holds Barred" style. Come with an open mind and be challenged.

4. Pray Hard and Speak Life – Cliff Powell, Author

A native of Cullman, Cliff has much to share about prayer. His own journey from addiction to sobriety set the stage for his family's greater battle when his wife was diagnosed with cancer. In this session we'll share stories, talk about prayer, and take time to bring our concerns before the Lord.

WORKSHOP SESSIONS

5. The Evangelical Association: Who We Are – Jim Barnes, National Minister of the EARCCC

Liberal theology has been influencing the mainline churches for nearly a century and is now translating into policy decisions in many denominations which are forcing evangelical, conservative congregations and pastors to question their affiliations. In this workshop we will consider the Evangelical Association as a post denominational alternative for believers who want to take a stand for truth. This workshop is particularly helpful for those wanting to learn more about the EA or who are considering affiliation with the association.

6. Ministry and Social Media: How to Harness Social Media for Your Congregation's Good Do you need to improve your communication and outreach via social media? This is a workshop where we are welcoming another local church to come in and help our church as well as yours with keeping up with today's technology. Social media is a huge part of churches today, let's team together to reach out to share God's love.

Please be aware that the speakers and presenters at EARCCC events come from a variety of traditions. There may be differences in points of theology, polity and application. Each of our speakers and presenters shares with us a common passion for Jesus Christ, the authoritative Scripture, and the work of advancing the Kingdom.
